INCENDIARIES AT WORK IN BROOKLYN.

An Investigation of the Big Tenement House Fire Leads to Some Surprising Developments.

THE FIRE MARSHAL'S REPORT.

There Were Two Fires in the Same Building in September Last That Were Not Reported to the Police.

There is little doubt in the minds of the Brooklyn authorities that the fire which occurred in the big double apartment house at Nos. 129 and 131 Sands street on Saturday night, when six persons were burned, was the work of an incendiary.

Fire Marshal Benjamin Lewis, accompanied by Fire Commissioner John Ennis, District Attorney James W. Ridgway, Captain Eason and Detectives Edward Noonan and John Carney, of the Fulton street station, were at the scene of the fire at an early hour yesterday. They inspected the building from cellar to roof and questioned a number of witnesses, and when their inquiry was at an end it was their unaumous opinion that the fire was the result of a plot.

Fire Marshal Lewis prepared the following report for transmission to the Fire Commissioners late yesterday afternoon.

They fine Marshall Report.

They made an examination as to the origin and circumstances attending the fire in the double brick tenement Nos. 129 and 131 Sands street, on the evening of Fabruary 21, whereby six persons lost their lives.

A large number of witnesses have been examined, and from the testimeny taken I am fully persuaded that this fire, together with two other fires of September I and 2 last, was the set of an incendiary.

Korosen cell had been found saturated around the vestibule of the front door and in the close of the second floor, adjoining the dumb whiter, and the building No. 129 was fired in the cellar, close to the dumb waiter, which was constructed of wood, and proved a ready conductor to early flame and smake along the combustible shaft without interruption from cellar to root. The general condition of the building was clean and tidy, and the any cause of complaint made was that the justice had not notified the police and Fire Department of his suspicion attending the origin of the fires of legion ber 1 and 2.

The building was another provided with fire assances and tending the fire the six persons lost their lives in an attempt to reach the number of the Police Department, I sen no efficial communication to the Police Commissioners recommending that some action be taken for the introduction of a law compelling the placing of automatic shatters or doors on every floor of buildings where air or dumb waiter shafts exist. Had this been a law I would not have been compelled to record a loss of life at this particular fire. I desire to recommend to you the enactment of such a law;

To District Attorner James W. Ridgway and yourself I desire to extend my thanks for every assistance rendered me in the examination of the burned premises and examination of witnesses, and with our combined efforts, together with thus of Captain Rason, we are encouraged in the bellef that we shall finally capture the incendiary.

PREVIOUS FIRES.

PREVIOUS FIRES.

In reference to the previous fires of September 1 and 2, the Fire Marshal said that the fire on September I had been discovered at twenty minutes past eleven in the morning by Mrs. J. Benker, the wife of the janitor of the house. She went into the cellar and saw smoke ascending from two barrels, one of which had been placed over the other. She threw down the barrels and extinguished the fire, but said nothing to the police about the mat-

Exactly twenty-four hours later Janitor Benker wont into the cellar and discovered a fire that had been kindled under the cellar stairs. He gave the alarm and the fire was extinguished.

It is said that yesterday's investigation has given the police a clew to the incendiary. The Fire Marshal believes the incendiary was actuated by malice and did not intend to cause loss of life. Half a dozen persons are awaiting trialifor arson in Haymoud Street Jail at the present time. The Marshal does not think that there is any ocganized band of incendiaries in the city, but believes that one crime of that nature suggests another to others.

Undertaker Moran yesterday morning called at the Morgue and removed the bodies of Miss Margaret Griffin, Mrs. Margaret Dorney, her niece, and Mrs. Dorney's children, Daniel and Minnie, to No. 168 Oliver street, this city. Of this family only the husband, John E. Dorney, and two children survive.

Dorney is a printer and was at his case when the fire occurred. He did not learn of his loss until early sesterday morning.

During the afternoon John J. Higgins called at the Morgue with his undertsker's wagon and removed the bodies of Jacob Benedict and his eighteenmonths' old grandson to his store, No. 135 Jay street, Brooklyn, to prepare them for burial.

A constantly changing, but never diminishing, crowd gathered around the buildings, the scene of the horror, all day yesterday. The iron ladders leading from the first floor to the street were still hanging from the first floor to the street were still hanging from the first scenes. The glass was gone from the windows on the top floor of No. 129, and in one of the apertures a sincke begrimed lace curtain flapped to and fro in the wind.

On the top floor, on which the Kling and Haskins family had their home, the ruin was complete. The little homes had been entirely wrecked.

The first had evidently been burning in the shaft for some time before it burst forth on every floor, paining in power as it ascended toward the roof. When it found cent on each landing the occupants of the various floors imagined that the entire building below them was on fire and were panic stricken.

When it found vent on each landing the occupants of the various floors imagined that the entire building below them was on fire and were panic stricken.

The stairway leading from the little cockloft to the roof, where the bodies of Mr. Benedict and his grandson and Mrs. Dorney and her children were found, was burned away, cutting off their escape if sufficient had not already overcome them. While the police were searching the ruins on the top floor they discovered a human foot, which is said to have been burned from the leg of one of the Dorney children.

A THELLING EXPLIKITENCE.

The most dramatic story of the fire was that told by Mrs. Chevallez, who escaped by way of the roof. She said:—

"Miss Margaret Griffin, myself and two children made our way through the smoke and confusion from my apartments on the third floor to the roof. We had to grope our way up and were almost suffocated. The smoke was at thick on the roof as it was in the house, but the air made it less oppressive. When we reached the roof I ran to the fence that Desparators No. 120 from No. 131 and threw my children over. As I was about climbing over the door of the little structure that covers the dumb waiter shaft burst open with a report like a cannon, and fire and smoke shot forth.

"Miss Griffin was directly in the way of the games and they enveloped her. I climbed over the feuce and found a man on the top floor of No. 131 handling some bundles. He shouted that my dress tas on fire and extinguished the flames. I begged bim to go to Miss Griffin's assistance, but he either did not hear me or did not beed me. I reached the street in safety."

A man who saw the beginning of the fire from a house around the block says that Miss Griffin was literally "smouldering with fire" for twenty minutes before she fell.

The building is owned by Emil Von Au, of No. 25 Palmstto street, Brooklyn. His loss, placed at $10,000, is fully covered by insurance. The loss of the sixteen families living in the house amounts to about $4,000, most of which is covered by insurance.

NO JOINT BROOKLYN PARADE. THE HIBERNIAN SOCIETIE + CANNOT AGREE UPON A UNION,

There was more war in the camps of the Brookvn Hibernians yesterday and the proposed recondillation of the factions is now as far off as ever. There is small prospect of a joint parade on St-Patrick's Day. Both factions met in their respective halls yesterday and discussed the situation. Special envoys and committees journeyed from one camp to the other and discussed various propositions looking toward a coalition, but all to no purpose.

The only thing the factions agreed upon jointly was that their conference committees should meet on Wednesday evening and discuss the differences. Individually, however, they appointed a staff of parade officers, mapped out two lines of march and transacted other actails.

P. J. McCarthy presided at the Joppa Hall convention of Irish societies and John Finley occupied the chair at Hibernia Hall, where the Gold street faction met.

At the former thirty-two divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians were represented, and business began with the adoption of resolutions contemning Ballour for his treatment of patriot Dillon and O'Brien; denouncing Magistrate Shanaon and his "liveried bloodhouds," and commending Parcelland the Irish Parlamentary party. Then followed a heated discussion, caused by the receipt of a proposition from Gold street in regard to the appointment of a conference committee in arrange for a union parade. The harangue was benchmeded by laying the matter over for "new business," and the Convention proceeded with the election of grand marshal. ection of grand marshal. Thomas Gaffney was elected, with James Rodden id John Gillen as sids. At this stage Mr. John Clark, a committee of one from the opposition, arrived to ask for a conference committee.

More debats followed, and an hour after his departure a committee of seven started for Gold street. It was composed of Messrs. Phil Clark, Fred McEwen, J. Rooney, P. Maloney, M. McPartland, Owen Murray and John McWilliams, and was invested with full power by a slim majority vote.

The line of march was then laid out as follows:—Rendezvous at Bedford avenue fountain; thence along Bedford to Willoughby, to Classon, to Myrtle avenue, to City Hall, to Court street, to Atlantic avenues.

The Gold Street Conference Committee was composed of Messrs, O'Donnell, Connors, J. J. McGinness, Clark, Holly and Kearney. They had chosen as their grand marchal Lawrence F. Carroll, and Thomas Kelly and P. Green as aids.

The joint session lasted three hours and no proposition of sither side was accepted.

Their respective conventions wasted until eight P. M. for their reports and then adjourned.

WILL FIGHT FATHER YODYZSUS. HE DEFIES HIS SUPPORTERS AND OPPONENTS AND

WILL BE CALLED TO ACCOUNT. Father Yodyzsus did not celebrate mass yesterday morning in his church at North Tenth street, Brooklyn, but he took up the customary collection from those of his parishioners who went to the church to worship. He followed the request of Bishop Loughlin to discontinue celebrating mass until the charges of assault made against him are tried in the Les Avenue Police Court next Thurs-

The opponents of the priest held another meeting in Palace Hall, on Grand street, near Wythe avenue, in the afternoon to devise means to rid the church of the priest. Father Yodyzsus' friends also held a meeting in the same hall, but in a different room. The priest's opponents numbered 55 and his friends 136.

DENOUNCING THE PRIEST. John Bertschinskey called the anti-Yodyzsus faction to order. George Miller made a speech in which he recited the scandal the priest had brought on the church, and said the scandal would continue on the church, and said the scandal would continue to occupy the minds of the people until Father Yodyzsus was relieved of his priestly function and told to feave Brooklyn.

George Baorinskie said the priest was in the Bishop's hands and what they had to consider was the question of getting the church property under the control of the society again, and then, if the Bishop did not deal with the priest, the people of the church could.

Michael Walskey suggested that a committee be appointed to take legal action regarding the property of the church. A committee consisting of George Miller, Michael Twaroskie and Anthony Yonuczchwicz were appointed to seek legal advice and have proceedings instituted against the priest.

The Yodyzsus faction had Joseph Wolinskie for chairman, and the speeches made were laudatory of the priest, and every one was urged not to desert him, but to stand by him until his troubles of the priest, and every one was urged not to desort him, but to stand by him until his troubles were over.

John Klesschweicz, a stanch supporter of the priest, made an address, in which he said he believed, until yesterday, that the church property belonged to the congregation, but some one told him that the priest had gone to parishioners in New Jersey and stated that the proporty was his, and his flock had nothing to say about it. Keisschweicz said it would be a good idea to appoint a committee at once to wait on Father Yodyzsus and ask him if, in his opinion, it would not be better that the church property should be in the name of the congregation instead of in his name.

The chairman appointed Simon Wysznecski, William J. Shultz, William Ellis and William Mouskiewicz is wait upon the priest, tell him they were his friends and would stand by him in his troubles, and then ask about the church property.

The priest, when the committee called, was profuse in his thanks for the meeting that his friends had called in his behalf. When the question of transferring the church property was broached Father Yodyzsus smiled and said be had no time to consult with the committee on those matters.

The committee persisted in knowing what the priest intended to do about the property, but he opened the door for them to go out.

The committee reported the result of their visit to the meeting and a how! went up. It was then resolved to assume the defensive and join hands with the priest's opponents. William J. Shultz and Simon Wyssnecki were delegated to visit extrustee George Miller and inform him of the agreement reached by the priest's former friends.

Miller called together a few members of the church and a committee representing both factions was appointed to call on Bishop Loughlin this morning and urge him to act at once in the priest's case.

TILLIE HAHN'S CHARGES. HER ACCUSED BROTHER-IN-LAW DENIES THAT

HE ECBB"D HER. The Brooklyn police are puzzled over the case of Tillie Habn, the young domestic employed by Saloonkeeper Frederick Ehlers, of Court and Union streets, who claims to have been bound and gagged by a masked burglar on Thursday evening while alone in the house, as reported in the HERALD. In her confession, which resulted in the arrest of Joseph Kelly, her brother-in-law, it is not believed she stated the entire truth. Kelly is her ister's husband.

Detective Sergeants Zundt and Rorke and Policeman Raleigh accompanied Captain Leony to Kelly's house, No. 447 West Thirty-seventh street, this city, where he was found and placed under arrest. He is nearly sixty years of age and bears a good reputation. He was completely expressing at the charge tation. He was completely overcome at the charge.

To Captain Leony he said that he could easily prove that on the night of the robbery he was at home and in bed at nine o'clock. Tillie says the burglar appeared about half-past nine o'clock. Kelly also told Captain Leony that he had visited the girl on Friday and was invited to remain to supper by the Ehlers, and did so. During the meal the circumstances of the assault and robbery were discussed in every detail.

"Why didn't she accuse me then?" he asked the Captain. "I came over to see if I could find out from her if she knew who the burglar was. She described everything and we all talked the matter over."

Tille is a strong, robust young woman and physically more than a match for Kelly.

Kelly was arraigned in the Butler Street Police. Court yesterday and reneated his denials to Justice Tighe. He was held for examination.

HE WAS TIRED OF LIFE, LEO METZ, SEPARATED FROM HIS FAMILY, SHOT

HIMSELF IN A BOARDING HOUSE, Leo Metz, who formerly had a furniture store on the corner of Court and Livingston streets, Brooklyn, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in his boarding house at No. 302 Washington street, that city. He was sixty years old, and for several years had been a sufferer with some throat trouble. He rented a room in the Washington trouble. He rented a room in the Washington street house last July, and told Mrs. Angelica Ocacz, his landlady, that he was separated from his wife and three children, and never wanted to see any of them.

He did not appear at noon yesterday, and when the door of his room was opened he was found on the floor dead, with a bullet wound in his left side. Two letters were found on a table in the room. One was addressed to Henry C. Luhrs, of No. 776 Gates arenue. The snicide wrote Luhrs that he was tired of life, as his throat appeared to be closing up and he was not able to eat any more.

The family of Metz reside in Dean street. A son has a furniture store in Brooklyn and another is in business in this city.

has a furniture store business in this city. WANTED TO CUT HIS THROAT. Thomas Andrews, aged sixty-seven years, attempted to commit suicide at his residence, No. 705. Prospect place, Brooklyn, yesterday by cutting his throat with a razor. His family told the police that he had acted recently as though his mind was unbal-anced. They kept a watch over him, but he cluded them yesterday morning and went to his room and got a razor. His son disarmed him before he had a chance to do himself any serious injury.

ALL AROUND BROOKLYN. The Fourteenth regiment was veterans recently presented the Plymouth Church Sunday school with a sland of colors, and vesterday Clarence B. McKenzie Fost paid a like patriotic honor to the Mayflower Mission branch. The exercises preceding the presentation were conducted by Superintendent R. D. Jaquas, assisted by Mrs. C. C. Luckey, organist; C. C. Luckey, precentor, and T. L. Doyle, accompanist. General Isaac S. Cathie made the presentation speech.

The several patrelimen of Prospect Park, Brooklyn, who were found snugly onsconced in their sentry boxes in the park by Captain McNamara, when they should have been on patrol in the early morning hours of February IX, were on trial before the First Commissioners saurdaw. Folicomen John K. Denham, Patrick Creamer, James O'Donnell, John H. Mulhearn, D. F. Meran and Richard F. McCummiskey were suspended for five days without pay. Folicemen Timothy Stapleton and George W. Thornton sent word that they were prevented by illness from appearing. They will be tried at the City Hall on Thursday, Creamer will answer an additional charge of intoxication at the same time.

CHURCH DOOR LOUNGERS SCORED.

Father Flemming, or St. John's Roman Catholic Church, in Orange, N. J., made some pointed remarks yesterday from his pulpit regarding young men who loiter about on the sidewalk in front of church doors waiting for the young women to come out. Father Flemming said he had no respect for young men who did this and that if it was not stopped he would thrash the young men with a stopped he would thrash the young men with a rawhide.

The pricat's remarks caused a sensation among the congregation and many young women were seen to exchange glances and smile. The young men who were inside of the church colored up and looked confused. When the congregation filed out of church it was noticed that the usual number of young men were not standing about the church the church commended Father Fiemming's remarks, and said they hoped the robute would have a salutary effect on the young sidewalk loungers.

PASTOR SUYDAM RETIRES.

AFTER OVER TWENTY YEARS OF SERVICE HE LEAVES HIS JERSEY CITY CHARGE.

The Rev. Dr. Suydam, pastor of the Park Reformed Church, Jersey City, bade adieu to the congregation at the services yesterday morning. He had not definitely announced that he would leave his charge, but the action was anticipated and occasioned little surprise. He retired reluctantly, and it was not until last Friday night that he determined to sever his connection with the church he had served so faithfully for twenty-two years.

Several months ago the pastor observed that some members of the church were taking less in-terest in the church work than usual. The pastor concluded that some members had grown tired of his preaching and one Sunday he surprised his hear ers by making the announcement that a preacher should not remain too long in one church, and as he had been with the church over twenty years he thought that it was time for him to retire and seek a charge elsewhere. His friends were in the majority and insisted upon him changing his the majority and insisted upon him changing his mind.

The opposition became more pronounced. There were frequent conferences and finally the pastor tendered his resignation. His admirers urged him to remain. The official board of the church, the consistory, was not in harmony and a compromise was offered by which the pastor was to return to Jersey City to live and that he should accept a smaller salary. He did not agree to this.

At a meeting of the consistory on Friday eight of the ten members were present. Dr. Suydam announced that he would accept a salary equivalent to $2,500 per annum. His salary has been $3,100. He asked to be allowed to withdraw his resignation.

The pastor's proposition was discussed for an hour and a half. It was painfully evident that the opposition was far greater than he anticipated. When the vote was taken five voted to have the resignation withdrawn. The other three declined to vote until the two absentees were present.

The action of the missing members in remaining away from the meeting was sufficient to convince the pastor that they were not friendly, and he promptly declared that under the circumstances he could not consent to withdraw his resignation. He could not remain unless the request was unanimous.

At the close of the morning service yesterday he made a very brief announcement that he had ceased to be pastor and hoped the church would continue to prosper.

WILLIAM CULL'S MAD FREAK.

CRAZY WITH DRINK AND TRYING TO CUT PEO-PLE'S THROATS WITH A CARVER.

Thirty people lodge in the tenement No. 151 Borry street, Williamsburg. When Policemen Con-boy and Kennedy, of Captain Short's command, went there at midnight they found them all in the yard in various stages of dishabille.

On the stairway, struggling with his twenty-yearold son, was William Cull, who occupied the top old son, was William Cull, who occupied the top floor. He was crazy from the effects of drink, and, armed with a large caving knife, was threatening to out the throats of every one in the house. Ho was arrested and locked up.
He described himself as an ex-Assemblyman of New York city, a friend of General Spinola and a relative of the late Lawyer J. T. Brady.

The people in the house said that Cull had gone through the place waving the knife and threatening to kill them all. He had been drinking freely for some weeks and is on the verge of delirium tremens.

MYSTERY OF A WOMAN'S DEATH.

Drs. Burnett and Little, of Long Island City, held an autopsy yesterday on the body of Mrs. Margaret Graham, of Flushing avenue, Astoria, who died suddenly on Friday. John Graham, the woman's husband, entertained suspicions that his wife did not die a natural desti and told Undertaker Harran. The latter destin and told Undertaker Harran. The latter telegraphed Coroner Cores, of College Point, and he ordered the physicians to perform an autopsy. It is alleged that Dr. Hartman, who attended the sick woman, had said, after administering morphine to her on Wednesday night, that he had given her enough to make a dozen women sleep. Mrs. Graham never recovered consciousness, and died on Friday.

The doctors on concluding the autopsy thought the woman had died of natural causes, but would express no definite opinion as to whether death had been accelerated by the morphine or not.

TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER.

Martin Pelkofsky, of Queens, L. L., indicted for the murder of Jacob Wenner at that place on November last, will be placed on trial in Court of Oyer and Terminer at Long Island City to-morrow. The men were friends and neighbors. They went rabbit shooting together and while returning home Wenner was killed. A thick hedge separated the men at the time.

Pelkofsky said Wenner was killed by the premature discharge of his own gun. That was the verdict of the Coroner's jury. Subsequently Detective Ashmead learned that Pelkofsky had discharged both barrels of Wenner's gun after the latter had been shot.

Another inquest was held and Varmer Soner who been shot.

Another inquest was held and Farmer Soper, who lives near the scene of the shooting, testified that Pelkofsky had told him that he (Pelkofsky) had shot Wenner accidentally. The shot found in the dead man's neck corresponded in size with that in Pelkofsky's shot pouch and was soveral sizes different than that carried by Wenner. The inquest lasted several days and created considerable excitement.

TARIFF BEFORE SILVER.

Congressman-elect J. DeWitt Warner lectured last evening before the members of the Single Tax Club on the "Free Coinage of Silver." He began by stating the position of the Reform Club, which deprecates the introduction of this issue at this time into our politics. The primary object aimed at was the reduction of tariff duties. He believed at was the reduction of tariff duties. He believed that the majority of the American people were with the club, and that providing the tariff issue can be kept as the principal one the tariff reformers were certain to carry the election of 1892.

The introduction of the silver issue would divide the parties along new lines, upon both sides of which might be found those whom they desired to see work together for tariff reform.

The speaker discussed the coinage subject historically and economically, and declared that free coinage would result in the depreciation of American securities and American currency.

TWO DESERTED BARES

A neatly clad young woman applied last Saturday night at the boarding house kept by Mrs. A. Brown, at No. 161 West Fifteenth street, for something to eat. She bore a pretty little infant in her arms. Mrs. Brown did so. She held the child for two hours. The neatly clad young woman did not come back.

Thusly Mrs. Brown reported the case to the police of the West Thirtieth street station and the infant was taken to Police Headquarters. The child was a boy about ten days old and was clad in a red dress of fine texture, a white woolly cloak and a white ear.

SUDDENLY TERMINATED.

Mrs. Cushing, the Newark Invalid, Who Was Irritated by Them, the Supposed Culprit.

HER PLAN OF DECEPTION.

Chief of Police Hopper Made the Discovery, but Thinks the Woman is Not Wholly Responsible.

Despite the fact that Chief of Police Hopper, of Newark, satisfied himself on Saturday at midnight that the alleged "spook" rappings in the apartments of Charles C. Cushing, at No. 48 Centre street, was the work of Mrs. Cushing, who is ill and nervous, the other inmates of the house were highly indignant yesterday at the very thought o such a thing.

Mrs. Cushing was yesterday taken to St. Barnabas' Hospital in an ambulance.

The house is one of a row of five which have brick fronts but are divided by thin walls. The apartment rooms in each are divided by what are scarcely more than board partitions.

No. 48 is occupied on the first floor by John Reilly, a die sinker, and his family; the second by Mr. and Mrs. Willowscroft and a young newly married couple, and the third by Cushing, a com-positor, and his wife. The latter have two children, but both are away from home.

Cushing and his wife are exceedingly nervous people, the latter being at present particularly so. For nearly three weeks she has been confined to for nearly three weeks she has been confined to her bed most of the time. On Sunday night a week ago she and her husband first heard the rapping. Mrs. Willowcroft went to their apartments, but still the raps continued, and with each one Mrs. Cushing became more frightened.

On Thursday night the matter had become so serious that Cushing had fears for his wife's life and summoned several policemen, but they could neither locate nor stop the rapping. It was repeated while there was a policeman in the cellar, one on the first floor, one on the third and one on the rose.

On Saturday night Chief Hopper and a friend went to the house. They found Mrs. Cushing in bed, her husband sitting near her head and two young men, Charles Garrison and Frank Hall, who live in adjoining houses, in the spartments. Mrs. Cushing was tossing uneasily on the bed, and through her partly opened eyelids peeped at the visitors.

Cushing was tossing uneasily on the bed, and through her partly opened eyelids peeped at the visitors.

Cushing said he had heard the raps only once during the evening, and that was when he went into another room for his wife. There were three loud and clear knocks right over her head.

A young man who lives on the second floor told how the raps were at times heard in all parts of the house and once seemed to be on the headboard of Mrs. Cushing's bed.

At this juncture Cushing left his wife's side and joined the group in the next room. The moment his wife was alone there were three quick and loud raps in the front room, which she occupied. One of the party indiscreetly remarked, "I'm satisfied. She did that herself."

Mrs. Cushing screamed as if in terror and her husband ran to her side. But that settled the rapping, so long as the Chief and his companion were there, as a close watch was kept on Mrs. Cushing.

A neighbor said that three times on Thursday night Mrs. Cushing's shoulder was unaccountably thrown out of joint.

Chief Hopper stationed himself in a position where he could not be observed by the sick woman and caught her knocking on the headboard of her bed. He at once reported the fact to Mr. Cushing, who took his wife to task for the deception which she had practised on him. The ghost raps ended with the interview, much to the infinite relief of the other occupants of the house.

Chief Hopper believes that being in a highly nervous state she is not actually accountable for her peculiar actions.

Knocks were again heard in Cushing's flat after midnight. Several policemen are investigating the mystery.

OBITUARY.

ROBERT J. LIVINGSTON. Robert J. Livingston, son of Maturin Livingston and of the daughter of General Morgan Lewis, died at his home in this city, No. 10 East Forty-eighth street, yesterday morning, from pneumonia, after week's illness. Mr. Livingston was born in this city on December 11, 1811, and received his education at Yale College. He entered the Coast Survey service and assisted in the first government survey of the Atlantic coast. In 1838 he became partner in the then well knewn Wall street firm of Choutmas, Prime, Livingston & Coster, and after some years of active business retired to his country seat at New Brunswick, N. J. Shortly after the civil war he returned to this city and made it his home. Mr. Livingston was one of the original founders of the Union and Knickerbocker clubs, of the New York Hospital, of which institution he was president when he died; of the Children's Aid Society and of the Home for Incurables. From the latter institution, however, he resigned a few years ago. Mr. Livingston leaves but one child, the wife of Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry.
